1983 May Madness

In the shadow of my journey
Lies a purpose -
Effervesce.
Lies a reason for my being -
Lumpy, bumpy happiness
Somehow finds its place
When I move ahead.

Indeed, I thought I'd never get here. And I thought I'd never get out. Funny thing, it got better as it got older. You know, the whole school scene. Settling in, getting to know the professors, one by one, and becoming part of this whole . . . this whole great whole.

Homecoming

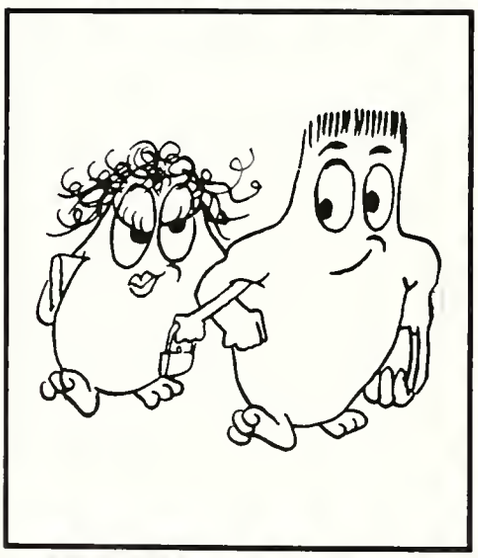
A Highlander's Celebration

Bright patches of fog shatter the twilight,
The moon's breath drifts aimlessly,
Giving life here and there.
The toss of a glass and it appears.
I appear.
Not unwanted, or unwelcome . . . just unexpected.
Here, amongst my thoughts,
Here, a very intimate and appropriate place.
Somehow, I knew you would arrive,
If I called long enough,
If I asked others to call you too -
I knew I would arrive.

I'm here and I'm me. Sure - I guess my "identity crisis" will never be over, but here, I'm winning the hardest battle. I'm finding me in the rabble and rubbish of my thoughts; in the reflections of my friends; in the fertile environment of peace and acceptance.

In the moonlights twilight and stopping by,
To jest with dreams by review,
The steel walls ensconced me as if I were
A sparrow, enshrined by grey velvet.
Visions therein could have petrified -
Turning loving, warm heart into stone.
Fighting with vigor to face reality,
I can't be all I want to be.
I don't know what I want.
Doctor, lawyer, Indian Chief,
Singer, writer, monk.

The whole idea of Me, Why, Who, What, Where, When, and How, especially How, did not just happen. Now I never really was one for philosophising. But the concept of just taking it as it comes was not working. No gold stairway appeared out of nowhere with the sign, "Climb to Your Destiny." I think it would have made my life a lot easier, but that doesn't happen like in the "good old days."



A distinguished looking gentleman
passed by my way one day,
And asked me if I had a match
To light his lonely way.
And wondering if I'd keep my par
(If I had dared to keep my dream)
As a sensible person, and nothing less
To play a part within his scheme.
Why are people the way they are
And people the way I am?
It was an odd incident of fate -
Or was it divinely planned?
To dream dreams upon a wheel
Spinning mere threads of time;
To give this gentleman a cloak of life
Without my own entwined.

I found that I am worthwhile, after all,
And that I am not dispensible. Hurray for me! I'm sure that the old adage,
"We're in this thing together," May safely
be applied, without making my world a psychedelic yawn.

- M.W. -

Now there are varieties of gifts but the same spirit. And the
are varieties of ministries, but the same Lord.
But to each one is given the manifestation of the Spirit for th
common good. . . . earnestly desire the greater gifts.
And I show you a still more excellent way.

ALL COLLEGE COUNCIL — The ACC is the equivalent of a Student Council, except the ACC works to involve all members of the college community. Composed of students, faculty, and staff, it is chaired by President Anderson with Sarah Jane Lindsay serving as Co-Chairman. Three major committees work under the ACC: the Academic Life Council, Student Life Council, and the Religious Life Council. Through these committees, the college is made a more democratic community for students, faculty, and staff.

The M.C. Scots football team started out the season with two new coaches. Bobby Saylor, a former assistant coach at Hampden-Sydney, replaced Art Ogden as Athletic Director and head football coach. The other addition was Leslie "Skip" Sawyer Jr., a recent graduate at Hampden-Sydney. He had been chosen by Saylor to coach the defensive line. He had also been chosen as head baseball coach The Scots ended the season with a 2-6 record. The major problem with the team was that they were inexperienced. There were 21 Freshmen, 16 Sophomores, 13 Juniors, and 2 Seniors. The football team tried hard and many of the points they lost were caused by careless errors. Coach Saylor is working to regain the sports interest at Maryville College.

Catch the cats & scatter some seed for three bears are home and hungry with
They wait to taste and then to pounce
On some small soul weighing half an ounce.
Reapers run the fields at night,
taking scraps left from the blight
Razor edged sickles gleam with blood
They are happy and dancing - the harvester's mood.

Pounding thunder fills a cave
echoes enter with each wave
of pain and drugged misery
the social worker smiles with glee.
Shadow, shadow
do you hear?
Insane to sane the time draws near
When shriveled hands admit defeat
And my charade will be complete.

Zoo.

but in what direction

- Oliver Wendell Holmes

the book is certainly not perfect, but we tried. and if we have succeeded in even the smallest way, you will have a lasting reminder of this year at maryville. aside from the work and the headaches, it was a pleasure to create, and will be, for me, a permanent reminder of what can and can't be done without cooperation. i've been too demanding and expected too much, but it has paid off. i hope you can overlook the mistakes - blame it on fatigue, if you will - and appreciate the book for what it is. my personal thanks to the entire staff, to mrs. brennan, and to ross henderson. also, thanks, david, for putting up with me through it all. congratulations, seniors, and whatever direction you are moving, may god be with you always.

cheers!
